Nature! great parent! whose unceasing hand
Rolls round the seasons of the changeful year,
How mighty, how majestic are thy works!
With what a pleasing dread they swell the soul!
That sees astonish'd! and astonish'd sings!

♃ Jupiter.	or ascend. node	♍ Virgo.	♓ Pisces.
♄ Saturn.	♏ Dragon's tail
♁ Herschel.	or descend. node.

The Sun is of the nature of a fixed star.

Mercury, moves round the Sun in 88 days, and is the nearest planet to it.

Venus, next above Mercury, moves round the Sun in about 225 days, & is alternately our morning and evening star.

The Earth, next above Venus, moves round the Sun in about 365 days, 6 hours and 9 minutes.

The Moon, moves round the Earth in about 27 days,
7 hours and 43 minutes; and in her motion there are wonderful irregularities and inequalities. She goes with the Earth round the Sun.

Mars, next above our Earth, moves round the Sun in about 587 days.

Jupiter, next above Mars, moves round the Sun in about 12 years. He is the largest of the planets, and is attended by four moons.

Saturn, next above Jupiter, nearly as large, moves round the Sun in about 30 years, and is attended by seven moons. This planet is encompassed by a broad flat ring, which thro' a good telescope, appears like two rings, one concentric to the other; and is quite different from all other planetary phenomena, with which we are acquainted.

Herschel, next above Saturn, moves round the Sun in about 83 years, and is attended by six moons.

Instruction.

MAN is born to labor, as the sparks fly upwards, saith Job: and as he shall only fill his throat with air, that sits lazily expecting fortune to drop an estate from the clouds into his mouth, when it can only be attained by the care of a vigilant head, and sweat of a laborious brow; so it is a most foolish proud humour, to continue in a wretched, sharking, necessitous condition, rather than embrace any honest employment, that might be advantageous, merely because it is not so neat and genteel as he would have it: just as a condemned malefactor should refuse a gracious reprieve, because 'tis not brought him in a silver box, or by the hands of a privy counsellor.

Perpetual Complaint.

MR. Printer,—Being among the number of those with whom mankind is continually dissatisfied, I beg leave to subjoin my complaints to those that have occasionally introduced them to the public through the channel of your communications. When I tell you that I am as old as time himself, you will allow, that on the score of longevity, I ought to be respected; and when I add that I am venerable in my appearance and temperature, as mortals themselves, you will also be disposed to grant that I am not to be reprobated on the score of inconstancy. Yet so it is, that though I seemingly take pains to accommodate my variable dispositions to the variable dispositions of mankind, the circumstance produces no sympathetic congeniality between us; and my inconstancy is rendered proverbial, while their own propensity to fickleness never occurs to their recollection. Yes, Sir, I have no quarrel with the world on the subject of indifference, neglect or disregard; for I must confess every body pays me due attention: I am enquired after every night and every morning, and so much the topic of conversation, and so regularly introduced after the customary greetings of ceremonial intercourse, that I may be said to be a kind of necessary assistant to conversation: for when people are barren of ideas, I am always at hand to supply the vacuity of their minds; yet I am scarcely mentioned in any other light but as the source of complaint and dissatisfaction, and without having some opprobrious epithet attached to my name. Sometimes I am accused of being too warm in my behaviour, sometimes too cold. If I smile unexpectedly, I am suspected of harbouring treacherous designs, and men say to one another sarcastically, "We shall pay for this!"—If I continue my placid deportment, and am mild, sweet and amiable for any length of time, I am said to be good humoured even to satiety. Some wish me to weep when I am disposed to be merry, and some to be gay when I am inclined to be sad. Thick, heavy, dull, nasty, are epithets commonly applied to me. If I am still, I am said to be vapourish—if loud, boisterous and rude. Aches, pains, rheumatisms and shooting corns are attributed to my influence. In short, Sir, I am so wretched, so censured, so abused every day, that it would seem as if I were a stranger upon earth, and born but yesterday, rather than an inhabitant of Paradise, known to Adam and Eve, and one who was present at the creation. But I will not detain you any longer, Sir, for I see that you are looking at me through the window, and meditating an interview with your very old acquaintance.

THE WEATHER.

Inspire your Lands.

TWO Lawyers happened to be pleading a land cause, at a session of one Judge, and shewing as it were the boundaries and limits of their land; one says, we lie on this side, may it please your honour; and the other says, we lie on this side. At which the Judge arose and said, "If you lie on both sides, which would you have me believe?"

TWO wits, happening to sleep in the same chamber, but not in the same bed, one calling to his companion in the morning, said—"who was the person that came into the house after I was a bed, last evening?" A Constable, replied the wag—"Indeed! how did you get rid of him!" "Why, I told him you was not at home!"

Suspicion.

AN evidence in court speaking in a very harsh and loud voice, the lawyer employed on the other side exclaimed, in an angry manner, "Fellow, why dost thou bark so furiously?" "Because," replied the rustic, "I think I sees a thief."

Fashionable Nudity. (For Wits, not Ladies.)

AS Jack, above a Draper's shop, saw written Bombazeen; 'Ha, Bet,' says he, 'I prithee stop, & tell what that may mean.' 'It means fair lady's drees,' she cried, 'who now go naked nearly; For 'tis so thin, and drawn aside, 'tis Bum-be-seen most clearly.' Says K. to L. "Did you e'er see ought sharp about our Justice T?" Says L. to K, "Indeed I have, oft as I've seen the barber shave."

The following mode of ridiculing the extravagant puffs of quackery is not badly designed, by the profound inventor of this new medicine.

BLACKHEAD'S ESSENCE OF PITCHFORK.

IT has been universally acknowledged that Pitchforks are very useful and essential, but rather irritating and inconvenient when taken in their natural state. My soporific extract is free from these disagreeable properties, and infinitely better than the Cordial Balm of Gilead, Church's Antispasmodic Drops, Whitehead's Essence of Mustard, or even Mrs. Rowe's water.—It is the most efficacious, divine, and astonishing preparation ever offered to the patronage of an enlightened and generous public.

Caution.—Beware of Counterfeits. The true, ethereal, soporific and invigorating Blackhead's Essence of Pitchfork, is prepared and sold only by the proprietor, Zebulon Blackhead, at his smith's shop in Druggist Alley, and notwithstanding it is procured at an incalculable labour and much expense, is sold at the very moderate rate of six dollars per dose, less than half of its original cost.—N. B. Blackhead's Essence of Pitchfork never fails to cure on the first application.

Certificates.

I do hereby solemnly affirm, that as I was walking up Beacon Hill in January last, I slipped and tumbled to pieces: By a judicious and timely application of Blackhead's Essence of Pitchfork, the parts were gathered together, without the loss of a single member.

Jedidiah Searemouth.

Having been for more than sixty years tormented with an abominable rheumatism, which caused my bones to crack and separate, and my joints to abandon their sockets, insomuch that my loving help-mate had to exercise much caution when brushing the house, to keep from sweeping me peace-meal out of it, as I lay scattered about the premises; and having been strongly recommended to the use of Blackhead's Essence of Pitchfork, I procured a dose, and to my utter astonishment soon had the pleasure of perceiving myself collected, and stuck together as firmly as ever. Nicodemus Sturdy.

Having died some time ago, to the great grief of my dear wife, she applied one of Doctor Blackhead's Essential Pitchforks, in situ, to my poor corpse. Symptoms of returning life soon appeared, and in a few weeks I was all alive.

Count Obadiah.

Maxim. Let frugality, temperance, modesty, and prudent economy become the objects of your reflection, and regulate your conduct.

Difference of High Water at several places from New-Haven.

In each monthly page, the 6th column shows the time of high-water at New-Haven. If from the time at New-Haven you subtract 2h. 53m. you will have the time of high water at New-York, New-London, Elizabeth-Town point, and Tarpaulin Cove. Subtract 30m. and you have it at Boston. Add 2h. 30m. and it gives you the time of high-water at Philadelphia. Add 20m. and you have the time of high-water at Hartford. Add 45m. and you have the time of high-water at Rhode-Island and the main ocean.

Ye too, ye winds! that now begin to blow
 With boisterous sweep, I raise my voice to you.
 Where are your stores, ye powerful beings! say,
 Where your aerial magazines reserv'd,
 To swell the brooding terrors of the storm?
 In what far distant region of the sky,
 Hush'd in deep silence, sleep ye when 'tis calm?

VI. Mon. JUNE, begins on MONDAY, hath 30 days.

From brightening fields of ether fair disclos'd,
Child of the Sun, refulgent Summer comes,
In pride of youth, and felt through Nature's depth:
He comes attended by the sultry hours,
And ever-fanning breezes, on his way.

Behold, fond man !

- See here thy pictur'd life :—Pass some few years,
Thy flowering Spring—Thy Summer's ardent strength—
The sober Autumn fading into age—
• And pale concluding Winter comes at length,

Great Solar Eclipse.

IN the year 1811, September 17, there will be a great Eclipse of the Sun, which will be visible to us in the following manner:

Beginning of the eclipse . . . . .	12 41
Moon will touch the sun's centre . . . . .	1 34
Middle of the eclipse, (see figure) . . . . .	2 22
Moon will quit the sun's centre. . . . .	3 6
Ending of the eclipse . . . . .	3 49

The duration of this eclipse will be 3 hours and eight minutes, and the greatest obscurity will be 10 digits on the sun's lowest edge. This is one of the greatest eclipses which has happened for many years; and if the darkness should then be sufficient, we may see some of the largest stars, and gloom and obscurity will shade terrestrial things. The eclipse will be central in some of the southern states, but not total, because the moon's dark shade will not reach the earth. The first appearance on the sun will be a small black dent, in the northern part of his edge, and on the right hand side—this spot will increase in size, until the middle of the eclipse, when the sun will appear ten twelfths obscured, as in the figure, and only a small edge of light will be seen on his upper limb.

An account of a remarkable species of Men, two hundred leagues from the country inhabited by the Hurons.

A MAN who had rambled about the world for some time, at length returned to his native country. His friends flocked to see him; every one expressed their joy at his return, and each was desirous he should recount some of his adventures. The budget of miracles was soon opened. Among many other things he said, "You well know my friends, the prodigious distance from this country to that inhabited by the Hurons: well, two hundred leagues beyond that, I saw a species of men who appeared very singular to me.

"They would often sit round a table till the night was far advanced, tho there was no cloth laid, or any thing for them to eat. Thunder might rool over their heads, two armies might fight at their sides, the heavens might menace ruin, without making them quit their places, or giving them the least disturbance; they appeared to be deaf and dumb. From time to time you might hear them utter some badly articulated sounds; these sounds had no connection with what they were about, nor were their signification of much consequence, notwithstanding they turned their eyes to some part of the company in a most strange manner. I often observed them with admiration, for they are generally surrounded by spectators, who seem to be attracted by a motive of curiosity; and believe me, my friends, I shall never forget the troubled countenances which I have seen on these occasions. Despair, rage, sometimes a malignant joy, blended with inquietudes, were by turns depicted. Sometimes it was the rage of Eumenides; then the serious and sullen air of the infernal judges; and then the pangs of a malefactor going to receive his punishment."

But said our traveller's friends, what had these unhappy creatures in view? Were they laboring for the public good? "Oh no."—Were they searching for the philosopher's stone? "It was not that."—It was the quadrature of the circle, then? "Still less."—Ah! we have it; they were performing penance for their crimes? "You are mistaken again."—Why then you have been telling us about madmen: without hearing, speaking or seeing, what could they be doing?—"They were Gaming."

BE cautious of taking up money at high interest, for it has has been the ruin of many.

NINE o'clock, A. M. Was called by the servant to breakfast: demurred to it—found it would'nt do, though—must fill up the blanks in the abdomen.

Ten o'clock. Felt a little squeamish: intemperence had taken away the tone of my stomach—took a drop of stimulus by way of reflexin, to get it back again.

Eleven o'clock. Peeped into Coke—what a big book it is—hard to be understood too—could'nd stand it—took up a song book, & humm'd over "Mother Carey"—walked to a neighbor's, and swallowed another reflexin stimulent.

Twelve o'clock. A huge fellow made a wry face at me—I swore I'd prosecute him for an assault, when he commenced a tremendous battery upon my poor carcass—I gave him a rejoinder—he tipp'd me a sur-rejoinder—I then darted my head into his stomach, by way of a rebutter, when he fell to the ground, and I won the cause.

One o'clock, P. M. Took a little more of the usual reflexin—sat down to dinner, and ate a slice of ham—made five resolutions to live more temperately—took a glass of half-and-half, by way of confirming them.

Two o'clock. In prime order—went to see Miss K.—a fine looking girl she is too—whispered a little nonsense in the ear: her mother don't like me—she popp'd in all of a sudden, and caught me kissing her daughter: I made issue per front door, and was off in a tangent!

Three o'clock. Saw a creditor—he dunn'd me hard—but I non-suited him for the present.

Four o'clock. Time to go to study—got a headache—read about petty larceny—an old cake woman came by, and I made forcible entry upon her basket, and detainer upon her gingerbread; the old dame made prodigious loud and strong declarations against it. My pica was fun—she vow'd she'd sue me—I gave her the price of her cakes to compromise, and the affair ended.

Five o'clock. Went to see an acquaintance—tried to be witty—out of five stempets, three were abortions—one joke was laughed at, and I shrewdly suspect that I was laughed at myself. Mem. Sick to common sense, and let wit alone.

Six o'clock. Took a little more reflexin—found my stomach in prime order—got among the girls—talked nonsense—laughed loud, and endeavored to be amusing—the girls snicker'd—I looked foolish, and became totally dum-founded.

Seven o'clock. Shall I go to bed? Too early yet—whistled libulero—caper'd about the house, and swigg'd another reflexin—felt quite lively—sallied out—broke a negro's head: The fellow made more noise than our court crier—I made my escape instant.

Eight o'clock. Took another reflexin. Nine—another!—Ten—Another!—Eleven—Two more, in quick succession!!!!

Nine o'clock the next morning—Found myself in bed with my coat on.

Genuine Anecdote of a Venetian Lady.

THE Lady of a noble Venetian lost her only son, and in consequence became a prey to the most excruciating sorrow. One of the reverend fraternity, to console her, among other things, reminded her how great must have been the afflictions of Abraham, who, nevertheless, without murmuring, obeyed the commands of Heaven, and was preparing to sacrifice his beloved, his only son!—Ah, holy father! replied the lady, in all the poignant emphasis of grief—God would never have exacted such a sacrifice from a mother!

Part of a Welch Sermon.

A BRIDE should have nine qualifications beginning with the letter P. viz.—Piety—Person and Parts—Patience—Prudence and Providence—Privilege—Parentage and Portion: but that which should be first of all and most of all in consideration, which is Piety, is now-a-days the least of all, and with many none at all—and that which should be least of all, and last of all in consideration, which is Portion, is become first of all, most of all, and with many, all in all.

Cement for mending China, Glasses, &c.

TAKE of Cheshire or Gloucester cheese so much as you may deem necessary, (an ounce, “more or less,”) boil it in three or four different waters, till it forms a soft and elastic mass, freed of the whey and other extraneous ingredients. After having expressed all the water from this mass, and while yet warm, rub it gradually on a piece of marble, such as is used by painters, with as much unslacked or quick lime in powder as will absorb without making it too hard. This compound forms the strongest possible cement; if allowed to dry slowly, it is able to withstand fire as well as water.

A very curious and simple way of preventing Flies from settling on Pictures, or any other Furniture.

LET a large bunch of leeks soak for five or six days in a pailful of water, and wash your picture, or any other piece of furniture with it. The flies will never come near any thing so washed.

Bark of the Lombardy Poplar, used for Dying.

AMONG the many dye stuffs to be found in this country, is to be reckoned the Bark of the Lombardy Poplar. We have in our possession, says the communicator of this article, a piece of silk dyed from white, and sent us by the gentleman who made the experiment. It is a beautiful straw colour, and little apprehension can be entertained of its fading.

The School-Master and Pupil.

A country School-master always insisted that H was no letter but an aspiration. One of his pupils unfortunately called it a letter, and Mr. Pedant gave him a severe flogging. The next day he sent his pupil with an apple dumpling, which had been lying some time till it got cold, desiring him to heat it. After some minutes absence the boy returned, but without the dumpling:—“Well sir,” cried the pedagogue, “have you obeyed my orders.” “Yes sir,” replied the boy. “And where is the dumpling?” “In my belly, sir, I did not forget that H is no letter, and therefore I eat it, sir, agreeable to your command.

Family Medicine.

FOR a scald or burn—apply immediately brandy or rum ; it will take out the fire without causing any pain, & prevent blistering.

Pain in the bowels—a table spoon full of Mustard seed, taken down with rum, gin or brandy, will cure instantly.

Cut or bruise—a plaster of balsam of fir : if the cut or bruise is not very bad you need not change the plaster, but only wet it two or three times a day with rum or brandy.

Cough—When you go to bed drink a pint of water as warm as you can swallow it ; when you rise drink half a pint of warm water.

Cholic—Beat the hips of white roses (gathered in winter) into powder, add half as much sliced nutmeg, mix them, and take some in all your drink : This is an excellent remedy.

Dropsy—Take broom ashes and mustard seed, steeped in a pint of white wine ; of which drink often.

Camp Distemper—take a handful of peach tree leaves ; boil them down strong ; then add as much molasses as there is of the liquor : then give it to the patient, one or two spoonfulls at a time, till it operates—which is said to be an infallible cure.

Dysentery, or Bloody-flux—take new churned butter, without salt, and just skimming off the curdy part when melted over a clear fire, give two spoonfulls of the clarified remainder, twice or thrice within a day to the person afflicted. This has never failed to make an almost instant cure.

Rheumatism—rub the part affected with a mixture of Cayenne pepper and strong spirits—the rubbing must be continued some time, and repeated until the cure is effected. Probably the American red pepper, might answer where the other is not attainable.

With a risible phiz, thus the hangman address'd—
“ Well, Jack, I am going to visit that place
Where your father is gone, and the rest of your race ;
'Tis by chance I but see him—and you my good friend,
May by me your respects to your family send.”
Ketch gravely replied as he fastened the twine,
“ I'll beg leave to trouble you, sir, with a line.”
